Disappointing data reading from US (ISM non-manufacturing and ADP employment) continues to signal slowdown in US economy. Thus raising the possibility of Fed nearing a pause (59% chance) to the aggressive tightening cycle. Elsewhere, Australia's trade balance surprised positively as it expanded to US$ 9.25 bn in Feb'23, with exports declining at a much slower pace. On the back of uptick in new orders, Chinese services activity accelerated for the 4-month in a row to 57.8 in Mar'23 (55 in Feb'23). Separately, India's services PMI moderated to 57.8 in Mar'23 down from 59.4 (12-year high) in Feb'23. As a result composite PMI eased a tad bit to 58.4 (from 59 in Feb'23). RBI's rate decision will take the centre stage today.

- Global indices closed mixed as uncertainty over global economic outlook resurfaced. Amidst these concerns, S&P 500 was down by 0.2%. Amongst other indices, Nikkei dropped the most and was dragged down by finance & investment and transport stocks. On the other hand, Sensex rallied and climbed up by 1% led by strong gains in cap goods, IT and consumer durable stocks. It is trading lower today as the attention shifts towards RBI's rate decision. Other Asian indices are also trading lower.

- Except Japan (higher) and China (closed), other global 10Y yields closed lower. Yields in Germany, India and the US fell the most. Weaker than expected US ADP employment print and ISM non-manufacturing signalled further slowdown in the economy. It has again raised hopes of a pause by the Fed. India's 10Y yield was down by 4bps to 7.27%. It is just a tad higher at 7.28% today, ahead of RBI's rate decision.
